Nowadays almost every family can afford an Internet for their house. And, as we all know, you can find any information you want on the Internet or find the picture of anything in the world. Although, ~~the~~ museums and galleries still manage to get more popular. That means that people still love the art and their history and also treat them respectfully. Gr

If we compare the attendance rate of British museum in 2013 and in 2017 we can see that it has increased significantly. Also if we look at the attendance of Natural History Museum or Science Museum we can admit that it had been bigger than it was in 2015. That probably happened because of introducing admission charges in 2014. People like science and nature very much but it's still not enough for them to pay for it. Styl.

But what can museums and galleries do to attract more people? In my opinion, a good way to do this is to attract children. Cause when parents come home after a hard day the only thing that can make them go to ^{the} museum is their child. Gr
 Also children are our future so it is important to show them what their ancestors went ^{to} through, how many lives were taken away during wars. Then they ~~it~~ will raise the humanity in them. Lex

Another way to attract people is to make the museums more interesting by, for example, adding the interaction, motion, not only static pictures and texts. This can make people want to comeback again.

As we see, museums and galleries are going pretty good but that's not the limit and they can still improve. Styl.
